COMBAT TO CAMPUS: Supporting the diverse psychosocial needs of veterans in higher education settings

April 13, 2012 9 am-3:45 pm

A day-long symposium designed for college/university counseling center staff, disability coordinators, other higher education student service personnel, faculty members, and anyone else looking to better understand and respond to the specific psychosocial needs of combat veterans as they return to higher education.

Sponsored by Riverside Trauma Center and Worcester State University Counseling Services and Veterans' Committee.

Location: Worcester State University, 486 Chandler Street, Worcester, MA 01602

Confirmed and Planned Topics:

- Making the adjustment from warrior to civilian
- Suicide prevention outreach services for veterans
- Traumatic brain injury and learning
- How to engage with veterans who have post traumatic stress injury and help them to thrive in the educational setting
- Addressing addictions with veterans

Funding from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's Suicide Prevention Program and the generous contribution of space from Worcester State University makes this symposium available at a minimal cost of $25 to attendees.

Pre-registration will be required.

Registration material will be sent soon!
